ECONOMY IN COAL

Technique Lamp Coal stands for economy in coal value. All lamp coals have a large percentage of heat which are practically wasted. The due in F.C. COAL (Lamp) here into Lamp is shown as they are cut into hollow. Technique lamp coal burns brightly and is therefore a decided economy.

TO-DAY'S CABLES.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

THE DUBLIN BATTLE

FIGHT STILL GOES ON.

London, July 3.

The attack reopened in Dublin in the morning on the rebel positions which are now restricted to the area mentioned earlier. Armoured cars and machine guns were again chiefly used. De Valera is believed to be in Hamman's Hotel which is bearing the brunt of the attack. Prisoners whom three shells yesterday compelled to surrender from Moran's Hotel were communists who had been very troublesome snipers. The other rebels retreated through tunnels driven beneath the buildings. A journalist who drove a jamming car in Sackville Street during a few hours lull in the morning found scarcely an inch of glass left in the windows of the buildings whose walls were heavily pitted with bullets. There were no signs of the defenders but fighting was resumed at ten in the morning. It was fiercest at one in the afternoon, the rebels responding vigorously. A great crowd again watched the fighting. All despatches from Dublin are now marked passed by the censor.

NATIONALS CLOSING IN.

London, July 3.

A fierce battle is raging in Dublin intermittently all day long. The national army, the afternoon communiques report, continued their inclosing operations cutting the irregulars' communications with a restricted area. The irregulars were driven out from practically all the posts on the South side of city. There were considerable captures of prisoners and arms and possession of the National Bank.

RELWAY TRAGEDY IN U.S.

TRAIN GOES OVER EMBANKMENT.

New York, July 3.

An express loaded with excursionists on the Philadelphia-Reading railroad travelling at seventy miles an hour missed the points at Winslow junction and fell on to the embankment. Nine persons are known to have been killed and seventy-five injured.

WAR CRIME TRIALS.

GERMAN DOCTOR ACQUITTED.

Leipzig, July 3.

The Supreme Court has acquitted Michaelson, a Berlin doctor accused of ill-treating French prisoners in German hospitals and French villages during the war although the prosecutor demanded a sentence of a year's imprisonment. Michaelson's case is the first of the fresh batch of war crime trials at the instance of the Franco-Belgian Governments.

POLITICAL CRISIS PASSES.

Berlin, June 3.

The likelihood of the Reichstag dissolving mentioned in the cables on June 29 has disappeared owing to the passage of the Grain Bill despite strong opposition.

THE HONGKONG WOMEN'S GUILD AND MINISTERING CHILDREN'S LEAGUE.

There are probably many residents in the Colony who do not realise what these words stand for. Briefly, the Ministering Children's Society is the oldest established Children's Society in the Empire and was founded by the Countess of Mountbatten in 1885 with the idea of helping children to be kind and obedient. "No day without a good deed" is its motto, and children by their own work and efforts raised funds to help their poorer brothers and sisters. A typical of the Ministering Children's League was introduced into the Colony by Lady Mountbatten years ago and the children of the Empire and their whole hearts have been given to the cause. The children of the Empire and their whole hearts have been given to the cause. The children of the Empire and their whole hearts have been given to the cause.

LATEST WIMBLEDON RESULT.

AN ANGLO-AUSTRALIAN CONTEST.

London, July 3.

At Wimbledon in showery weather before a moderate attendance the remaining five fourth-round matches resulted in the elimination of the two remaining Continentals. Coochet was beaten by Anderson 6-3, 6-0, 6-4, and Paquer by O'Hara Wood 6-2, 6-4, 11-9. The singles are now purely an Anglo-Australian affair, the fifth-rounders being Lyneck Davson, Mavingor, Gilbert, Anderson, O'Hara Wood, Patterson and the Hon. Cecil Campbell who are paired in the order given, therefore the great Anderson-Patterson meeting will probably occur in the semi-final. Mrs. Mallory and Miss Langen advanced in the fourth round. Progress was made in all the doubles sections. Mrs. Stocks and Miss McKenna won by 6-2, 6-2 from Miss Scott and Miss Lumley Ellis.

BRITISH CENTENARY EXHIBITION.

TWO BRITISH SHIPS TO GO.

London, June 3.

Asked in the House of Commons whether the British Empire would be the only great power not represented at the Brazilian centenary exhibition, at Rio de Janeiro Mr. Lloyd George said that the cabinet on reconsideration had decided to send the "Hood" and the "Repulse" to Rio de Janeiro. He described the questioners' suggestion that the overseas department be requested to co-operate with the Admiralty to profit by this opportunity in the interests of British trade as an admirable one which he would be pleased to communicate to the department.

GETS OF RADIO-TELEGRAPHISTS.

INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION FORMED.

London, June 3.

The International Federation of Radio-telegraphists was formed at a meeting at Brussels of delegates from Belgium, Denmark, Britain, Greece, Holland, Italy, and Sweden. Resolutions were carried demanding that the Federation be represented at the international radio-telegraph convention, fixing the basis of an international maritime scale, and demanding the abolition of dilated labour and the acquisition of the English and French languages by operators.

A WATCHMAN'S STORY.

A Chinese watchman employed at No. 44, Dynastie Magazine, Talkies, reported to the district police that about 11.30 p.m. on the first, he was in the Magazine when three men all armed with daggers entered and asked him if he had a revolver. When he replied that he had not, they then searched him and took $20.70 in money and a small watch worth $2.20. The man then dragged him to the Magazine, opened by himself and a job and then finding his hands with the own daggers, began to cut with a handkerchief. The man then escaped and ran to the police station and reported the matter. The police then searched the Magazine and found the watchman's story was true. NOTICE.

THE ORIENT TOBACCO
MANUFACTORY, MONGKOK, HONGKONG.

JUDGMENT was delivered on the 5th day of May 1922 by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Hongkong in an action which was brought by Carl Ingenohl against Messrs. Olsen & Co. Inc. of Manila which decided (inter alia) that Carl Ingenohl carrying on business at Mongkok, Hongkong under the style of the Orient Tobacco Manufactory was entitled to the exclusive use of certain Trade Marks and also Trade Names, the chief of which latter are, "La Parla del Oriente," "El Cometa del Mundo" used by him in connection with the sale of cigars manufactured by the said Factory. The Trade Marks in question can be inspected at any time in the Offices of the undersigned and bear the said Trade Names or one of them.

On the 17th day of May 1922, on behalf of Mr. Ingenohl and the Orient Tobacco Manufactory, Mongkok, the undersigned circularized notices to this effect together with copies of the Trade Marks and Trade Names in question to various cigar dealers and retailers in Hongkong. In spite of this fact, we are informed that various dealers are selling cigars bearing the various Trade Marks and Trade Names in question which cigars have not been manufactured by the Orient Tobacco Manufacturing Co., Ltd.

CANTON SITUATION.

POSITION IN HONGKONG.

SIDE ON CHEUNG CHAU FORT.

Communication with Canton by means of the Kowloon Canton Railway was resumed last night when the first trainload from Canton arrived at the Tsimshatsui at 10 p.m. The damaged lines at Wuhung have not yet been repaired, but a train from Kowloon met the down train from Canton at Wuhung and passengers had to pick their way across the stretch of broken line and transfer to the other train in which they completed the journey to Kowloon.

Chan Wing-sing and his troops entered Heungshan Sun Yatsen's home town on Sunday afternoon and after a brush with the Mon-koon (Nien soldiers) captured the City. Magistrate Ng of Heungshan was personally in command of the defending troops, and put up a stiff fight against the invaders. Fighting lasted for five hours before the Mon-koon were defeated and driven back in disorder. Magistrate Ng has fled the country. The Mon-koon's casualty list is reported to number 60 killed and many wounded, while Chan Wing-sing's side only five are reported to be wounded. General Chan Wing-sing has now taken charge of affairs in the City and everything is again quiet. A telegram received here this morning states that Heungshan has returned to normal, and no more fighting is anticipated.

General Ip Kui has communicated his intention of laying siege on Cheungchau fort, to Admiral Tong Teng-kwong and has requested the latter to give him Navy to that effect so as to avoid any possible misunderstanding. Admiral Tong is reported to have replied to General Ip Kui's telegram requesting him to postpone attack for 24 hours. On hearing this, the citizens of Canton held a mass meeting at the Kwong Hai Hospital and resolved to send Ip Kui a petition not to enforce his intention. The people are all said to be in favour of peace, and will do their utmost to prevent further fighting and misery.

Another report states that two attacks had already been made on the Cheungchau fort by Chan's troops, but both were unsuccessful. Sun, it is said, had somehow received warning of the impending attack and was fully prepared with strong forces on both occasions. A third siege is threatened within 24 hours and the people are reported to be doing all in their power to prevent this.

General Ngai Bong-ping has returned to Canton from Shanghai. He told the people's representative who interviewed him that both sides are more or less reconciled, and a bloodless peace is possible with a little give-and-take on both sides. The people's representatives are reported to have asked General Ngai to assume the Civil Governorship of Canton, but he declined, saying that he could be more useful in the interests of the people by acting as mediator between the two hostile sides. He has left for Whampoa to interview Dr. Sun, but the result of the mission is not yet known in Canton.

The Navy in Canton is now reported to be divided in two, the majority, under Admiral Tong Teng-kwong is in favour of a peaceful settlement between Chan and Sun, and has declared its neutrality. The other section of the Navy, consisting of four cruisers, the "Wing Fung," "Cho Yue," "Po Pak" and "Kwong Yue" is still faithful to Sun and is reported to be prepared to fight for him to the last.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

LOCAL AMERICANS
CELEBRATE.

Congratulations to the local American community on their national day—the Glorious Fourth. In the street-to-day the American flag is prominent and many ships in the harbour are dressed in honour of the occasion. As part of the celebrations a baseball game was played this morning between "Married" and "Single" teams. The stand at Happy Valley was well filled and the game was honoured with the presence of His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government Hon. Mr. Chai Si-yuen C.M.G., who watched several innings. The "Single" team proved conclusively that though they could not boast of the married state they could play baseball and the "Marrieds" were humiliated to the extent of 8 runs to 3. The game was a very pleasant one arousing great enthusiasm among the bleachers, who particularly enjoyed the efforts made by the players to reach third base where a bag of specially imported beer was in attendance. A feature of the game was a triple play by the "Singles," Shannon for the "Marrieds" hit a three-bagger and O'Connor and Keach for the "Singles" hit for two bases. From 4 to 6.30 this afternoon a reception is being held in the Hong Kong Hotel.

TO-NIGHT AT THE CORONET

KOWLOON THEATRE.

We reprint below a letter addressed to the Editor of this paper and published yesterday.

AT OUR USUAL

NEGLIGÉ DANCE.

THIS EVENING, TUESDAY, JULY 4th.

any dancer who, before the eighth dance-number, informs the Manager that he (or she) finds it too warm for comfort in dancing, will have the cost of his ticket refunded without question upon surrendering the ticket-counterfoil.

The Letter: On Dancing in Warm Weather.

An observation made to me last Tuesday evening by a new visitor to Kowloon Theatre, so far as dance nights are concerned, has given me to think. He said, at the end of the evening, "I could not have believed it possible for the Theatre to have been kept so cool, or for dancing to be so pleasant in this hot weather. I have thoroughly enjoyed myself." Now, Sir, I feel that it is certainly the case with many of the people of this Colony that they are missing, in the summer, a great pleasure and relaxation because they think they will not be comfortable, whereas, as a fact, they may be perfectly happy dancing, given the proper conditions. I am dancing regularly myself and I know.

Take Tientsin: here they dance right through the summer and those who have visited the northern port in June-July-August know that the temperature of Hongkong particularly after sunset is not a circum-dance to that in the same season in Tientsin. It may be retorted that in Tientsin the folk dance in the open air; (I know—I've done it myself in June), but in the case of our city, the air is clean and the conditions are better than in the open air; when there is often no breeze at all, what with the crowd of open windows, the double battery of fans, and the large masses of ice provided.

A final word or two: the way to enjoy dancing in the hot weather involves a little forethought. The evening bath should be taken, warm, as nearly before dancing as convenient, the lightest clothes, of course, should be worn, men wearing a low, cut coat or, even, a tennis-shirt with no collar at all. Finally, don't take too much liquid!

Try this, you who don't yet know, or only think you know, and don't deprive yourselves unnecessarily of a delightful recreation and pleasant, healthful form of exercise.

THE MANAGER
KOWLOON THEATRE.

Now, then, call our "bluff"—We are not afraid, for we have the comfortable knowledge that we are not really bluffing.

A FINAL NOTE.—Experience is teaching the Management of Kowloon Theatre how to make the ice used for cooling the Theatre more effective. A further development is being made for tonight.

DAWNING PROSPERITY.

LORD BEAVERBROOK'S OPTIMISM.

Lord Beaverbrook, who was the principal guest at the London Commercial Club luncheon, held at the Trocadero Restaurant, Piccadilly-circus, in mail week spoke of the commercial opportunities of the present time. He said he was glad to see, though some of them had been predicting the approach of prosperity for weeks past, that now they found themselves supported by many public men, including the President of the Board of Trade. For his part he had supreme confidence in the immediate future. He knew of only one impediment which stood in the way, and that was a bogey man. It was as it used to be, the German menace. Before the war the German menace was of an industrial character. They were going to deprive us of our industry, they were going to take from us our markets. That was all over now. The German menace had taken a different form. Before the war we were going to be destroyed by the prosperity of Germany. Now we were going to be destroyed by the collapse and ruin of Germany. That was the new bogey man.

Lord Beaverbrook went on to say that the bogey man would not do service any longer. The truth was that Germany industrially was helpless because German finance was smashed and broken. German finance was rushing through a mad period of inflation, and he prophesied that inflation would lead to inevitable disaster and in the end a crash, which must involve reparation, before we saw conditions returning their normal state again. He asked them to turn away from Central Europe to where the light of dawning prosperity was beginning to fertilise the fields of England, Scotland, and Ireland, of Australia, Canada, America, and other foreign markets, where British commerce and industry would prosper even though there was no real awakening in Central Europe. (Cheers.)

"I WILL BE WELL."

DOCTOR REJECTS THE COVE THEORY.

The death of Miss Katherine Beckett, 57, who as a believer in the Christian Science movement declined to call in a doctor, was the subject of an inquest at St. John's, Lancashire. Miss Beckett was engaged as lady's companion in Birkdale, near Southport.

Mrs. Farraday, a widow, said she became acquainted with Miss Beckett only recently. Miss Beckett complained of being poorly, and Mrs. Farraday went to see her and found her in bed. Mrs. Farraday gave her warm milk and chicken broth and advised her to call in a doctor for the sake of the others in the house, but Miss Beckett shook her head and said she did not need a doctor.

Answering the coroner, Mr. Farraday said she did not practice any Christian Science treatment on Miss Beckett. She simply went as an act of compassion and kindness, as she would have done to anyone else in trouble. She called in a nurse who was attending Miss Beckett's mistress and afterwards went to Dr. Corkhill. Death had taken place before the doctor's arrival.

Dr. Corkhill said the primary cause of death was pneumonia. If Miss Beckett had taken a dose of castor oil she should have been alive to day. The coroner: Suppose she said "I will be well" 100 times, would she have recovered?—No.

Or prayed?—A little help in that direction.

The coroner, returning a verdict of Death from Natural Causes, said he sought in all probability Miss Beckett would not have been ill if she had received medical treatment. He did not want it to be thought he was casting scorn on Christian Science. Anyone who had read Prince of Wales's book on this question would know there was a great deal in the theory that suggested such a person should do with Christianity. He did not attach any blame to anyone.

ODDS AND ENDS.

MAINLY SCISSORS LOOT.

New Floods by Wire.

Negotiations have now been completed leading to the acquisition by Messrs. Harrods, in addition to the premises of Messrs. Swan and Edgar, of the complete island site bounded by Piccadilly-circus, Regent-street, and Airstreet. This site will shortly be transformed into extensive modern stores. The capital involved aggregates £2,000,000. The intention of the firm, a Press Association representative was informed, is to inaugurate stores which will embrace all the latest improvements for the convenience of shoppers, and will include a large cafe, with a floor suitable for dancing. The size and development of the new building, Sir Woodman Burridge, chairman of Harrods, stated, will depend on the concessions granted by the authorities, with whom negotiations are now being entered into with regard to restrictions in height.

For Torpedoed Seamen.

Although the sums received by Britain from Germany up to the present are insufficient to cover the cost of the British Army of Occupation, the Government propose to ask Parliament to vote the sum of £5,000,000 to be paid in grants to individuals recommended by the Commission on Compensation for Suffering and Damage by Enemy Action. The Commission expect to be in a position to recommend certain grants in cases of special hardship up to a total of £100,000 during the current financial year, and a supplementary estimate for this amount is being presented. This information was given by Mr. Hilton Young in reply to a question in the House of Commons as to whether any progress had been made in deciding the reparation claims of merchant seamen torpedoed at sea.

A terrible experience befel the wife of a railway employee in the Mall country in Victoria. She had gone out in search of some straying horses and lost her way in the bush. For two days she wandered through the scrub, parched with the fierce heat that rose from the burning sands. A train was sent along the stretch of line that passes through the country and discovered the woman lying exhausted near the rails, with her dog beside her. The woman told a harrowing story of her frantic wanderings after she became lost. Finding that the heat was weakening her and not being able to obtain anything to drink, she had eaten gum leaves to try and quench her thirst. Her condition was desperate when she heard the faint whistle of the train about ten miles away. During all the time she was lost her dog remained with her.

Dr. Charles Singer delivered an address at University College to the members of the Jews in Medieval Science. He showed how powerful and predominant Islam was in intellectual activity from the eighth to the twelfth centuries, and how, during an influence that activity extended to the medieval ghettoes. Jews, who eagerly absorbed Arabic learning from the medium by which contact was first established between the East and Arab science. Donatello (1386-1466) undoubtedly influenced medical science, and it was he who left the first known medical document in Europe. By his knowledge of Latin, Greek, Hebrew, and Arabic he was brought into touch with the Western centres of learning. That there was a definite Jewish influence in medicine at that time was the main test of medical science, was evidenced by the translations made by Christians of Jewish texts.

DOUKHOBORS AND MORMONS.

MR. STEPHEN GRAHAM'S ADVENTURES.

Mr. Stephen Graham never seems to be so happy as when, scotch on back, he is wandering in some out-of-the-way part of the earth, and during his recent tramp in the Rockies, in the company of Mr. Vachel Lindsay, the American poet, which he recounts in "Tramping with a Poet in the Rockies" (Macmillan, 8s. 6d. net), it would appear that both he and the poet were in an almost perpetual state of overflowing good spirits. Anybody who wants a tonic from depression, and is not too easily irritated by the rather self-conscious tone of Bohemianism that the book develops, will be well advised to read these gay and open-air pages.

But to the ordinary reader the endless discussions on scenery, poetry, and politics, however vivid, will not prove so interesting as Mr. Graham's account of the settlements of Doukhobors and Mormons which he found in Canada. He discussed with the Doukhobors—who are a sect of Russians with extreme anti-militarist views—the subject of the Bolshevik regime.

"Most of them said: 'Let those who are richer in Russia give to those who are poorer. There'll be enough to go round.' Imagination did not show them the ghastly ruin of contemporary Russia, where except for a handful of Soviet commissars there are no rich, no 'better-off' people. Most of them also said: 'Let them lay down their arms, and then we'll think of feeding them.'"

"But their deliberations crystallised in the following way. They decided on a symbolic act. They visited all their Ruthenian and Galician neighbours and anyone who had a war trophy to spare. . . . These they burned in a heap. Then they sent a wireless message to the Russian people describing this act, and added further the monition: 'Do likewise; burn your rifles, and return to work.'"

A little further on he fell in with the Mormons and was shown round by an old Mormon.

"Wherever we locate we build temples," said the guide, a curious old fellow, so dilapidated that he strewed the temple floor with his sashes, an Englishman from the province, a scout, confidential informant. 'This is the eighth Mormon temple,' said he. 'The ninth is now building in Phoenix, Arizona.'"

However, the questions he put to the guide seemed to make Mr. Graham unpopular, and when they bade the guide goodbye he would only give them his left hand.

"A left-handed shake," said Vachel meditatively, as we went down the steps.

"You know what that means?"

"No."

"That means—go to Hell!"

M.P.'s QUARREL.

"WAIT TILL I GET YOU OUTSIDE, MY BOY!"

The discussion of the Grampian Electricity Supply Bill in the House of Commons in mail week gave rise to a sharp verbal encounter between two members.

While Mr. Ormsby-Gore was speaking, Sir John Norton-Griffiths rose suddenly to complain to the Deputy Speaker: "I do not know whether it is put across the floor of the House to me, but an hon. member opposite rather instructed that I was looking for a contract."

Mr. Austin Hopkinson, who was facing Sir John, replied promptly: "I have nothing whatever to say on the matter. I was engaged in a private conversation with my neighbour, and if the hon. member opposite chooses to listen, I can't help it. He must do so."

"I will put the cap on your head outside, my boy, and let you have it," said Sir John Norton-Griffiths warmly.

Later Sir John repeated: "Wait till I get you outside, my boy." The two members—Sir John in evening dress and Mr. Hopkinson in a "spill" out of an order paper—remained in their respective corners facing one another until later in the evening, when Sir John, rising to speak, explained that he had misinterpreted a whispered conversation between Mr. Austin Hopkinson and another hon. member. "I really did misinterpret the remark," he said, "and made use, probably, of some silly observation. It is my duty frankly to admit it and to apologise."

Mr. Austin Hopkinson rose, smiled, and bowed his acknowledgments. The House cheered, and Sir John added an observation about "seeing no quarrel here." "I feel I was in the wrong and I frankly admit it," he added.

The House cheered once more, and the session was closed.

BRITAIN'S DEBT TO ITALY.

BARD OF BALFOUR'S TRIBUTE.

The Earl of Balfour, presiding at the annual Italian lecture of the British Academy, at the rooms of the Royal Society on May 24 said that by a happy coincidence on Empire Day they were devoting the afternoon's proceedings to a subject of one of our closest Allies in the Great War. They had met to reflect on the great debt which the civilisation of the world—and not least the civilisation of our own country—owed to the great masters of Italy in all departments of human activity. The debt of Europe and of Britain was one which, unlike other international debts could never be estimated and could never be repaid. Part of it was due to the great work of men, who living as they did centuries ago, nevertheless had memories among us as vivid as they had in the time of our remotest ancestors. Nobody would forget Dante or Boccaccio, but neither should we ignore those others—whose names perhaps did not come easily to our lips—who were responsible for a great mass of intellectual, artistic, musical energy, which had vivified the whole of Europe. The lecture to be given that afternoon was due to a generous donation by Mrs. Anglia Mond to the academy, in order that there might be an annual lecture devoted to the study of Italian masterpieces.

The Chairman then presented to Professor Edmund Gardner, Professor of Italian Studies at Manchester, the Serena Medal, which he explained was one of a series of benefactions given by the late Mr. Arthur Serena an Englishman of Italian parentage, who felt he could not do better service to the two countries with which he was connected than to promote in each of them the sympathetic study of the great works of the other. Mr. Serena founded half a dozen professorships of Italian literature in England, and had carried out corresponding work in Italy to encourage Italian knowledge of English culture. He was removed in the very plenitude of his powers but had left behind these memorials, which would be a perpetual monument both to his insight into the tide of international relationship and of the great generosity with which he carried out his intentions. The Serena Medal was bestowed by the British Academy upon the one who during the year had furthered in his literary work the great objects Mr. Serena had in view.

Mr. Edward Hutton in the course of his lecture upon "Some Aspects of the Genius of Boccaccio" declared that "The Decamerone" had had at least as great an influence on European literature as Dante's "Divine Comedy." But Boccaccio's immense services to literature and humanism were by no means summed up in that book; he was not only a great creative artist, but a heroic soldier in the cause of humanism and the revival of learning. Only prejudice could dismiss such a man as a mere purveyor of doubtful stories. "The Decamerone" was an absolute work of art, as detached as a work of Shakespeare or a portrait by Velasquez. It was questionable if the design of the book had ever been excelled, although in "The Canterbury Tales" Chaucer certainly equalled it. Yet it must be confessed that while the book was a mirror of the world it lacked a certain idealism, a certain moral sense, which would have given it a balance and proportion which to the lecturer, it seemed to want. Boccaccio took his place with Dante, Chaucer and Shakespeare, and, excepting Dante, no other writer in the Italian tongue could be compared with him. Hutton demonstrated how much Chaucer was indebted to the work of Boccaccio, "the greatest story teller in the world," and gave an interesting account of the various influences which operated upon Boccaccio's life and shaped his work.

A vote of thanks to the lecturer, proposed by Professor W. P. Kr. was seconded by Mr. J. W. Mackinnon who observed that, whilst a hundred years ago the ability to read Italian was a common mark of the educated Englishman or Englishwoman, this had now ceased to be the case. Whatever other things we had gained, that loss was a needless one.

DEMILITARISED OFFICERS.

SOLD AS SLAVE.

BRITISH DOCTOR KILLED BY ARABS.

Capt. Tillson Lewis Harrison, who formerly served with the R.A.M.C. in Palestine, has been the victim of a singular adventure at the hands of Arabs in the hills beyond Hamman Melouane, a village about 58 miles south of Algiers.

Capt. Harrison, according to his statements, arrived at Algiers from Constantinople in the British steamship "Constantinople" on his way to Canada via New York. While the ship was in port he appeared to have gone on shore, during which time the vessel sailed without him. He thereupon left Algiers on foot, and after passing through the village of Hamman Melouane he came to a ravine where he fell in with two Arabs, who said that they were broken and that if he went with them to their house he would be welcome.

After climbing the mountains for longer than two hours the party arrived at a place where there were a few isolated huts, one of which they went into and Capt. Harrison was given food. Later on, the two brothers, after having told him to sleep there, left him.

During the night he was awakened by the arrival of six other Arabs, who ordered him out of the hut. He was taken away to a place where, after beating him and stealing his belongings, Arabs tied him to a tree with his hands secured behind his back. By this time several natives had arrived from the surrounding hills, and a "pow wow" was held, as the result of which he was untied from the tree and handed over to an Arab, who gave him to understand that he had become his property for 12 years.

Capt. Harrison was forced to accompany his new master to his home, where upon their arrival the man's wife made such a fuss that he was obliged to take his newly acquired "slave" back to the "pow wow."

The chief of the aggressors became furious and belaboured Capt. Harrison heavily with a stick and tied him up to a tree again.

Finally, the two brothers came to the rescue and released him. One of them took him to the village at the foot of the mountain, where he was fortunate enough to run across a French Government official who happened to be visiting the locality on official business. After listening to Capt. Harrison's story the accuracy of which has been established, the official accompanied him back to Algiers.

As the result of the prompt action of the local authorities the Arabs concerned have been arrested. Capt. Harrison's belongings, which were taken from him, have been recovered.

DEMILITARISED OFFICERS.

AN EMIGRATION SCHEME.

Steps have been taken by the India Office and the Government of India to investigate the possibilities of the settlement in the Dominions and the Colonies of junior officers of the Indian Army whose retirement has been accelerated by postwar reorganisation. About 2,000 of these officers are affected. Special attention has been paid to Australia in view of the need of a suitable type of settler in the Commonwealth. A scheme financed by the Australian Farms Ltd. has been recommended by the Overseas Settlements Office. Estates in Australia are possessed by the organisation, and blocks of land are sold on the deferred payment system to new settlers. Training is provided, and financial assistance during the first few years of tenure is arranged. Irrigation and the provision of stock, tools, and temporary accommodation are also matters dealt with by the organisation.

As the result of conferences between representatives of the organisation and of the India Office, the co-operation was obtained of the Government of Victoria, who agreed to provide irrigation. Blocks of land suitable for arable growing and others suitable for wheat growing or mixed farming. Payment is to be extended over 36 years, and a provisional scheme provides that officers taking up these blocks of land will come under arrangements made by the Australian Farms Ltd. in respect of training and the provision of stock.

Major Currie, representing the Government of Victoria, and an Australian Farms Ltd. is visiting India to explain to retiring officers who may be interested the nature of the scheme and the general conditions in Australia. A note drawn up by the Commonwealth Director of Migration and Settlement regarding settlement conditions has been sent to the Government of India. The Government of India is also sending a representative to Australia.

INDIANS AND AUSTRALIA.

MR. SASTRI'S ADDRESS AT MELBOURNE.

A Melbourne message of June 11 says that Mr. Sastri delivered an address lasting an hour before an overflowing audience at the Wesleyan Church. In the course of his speech he said that Indians "would remain in the Empire on condition that they were treated in the same way as others under the Union Jack and that they were enabled to walk erect feeling they were treated as full citizens and not as members of an inferior and subjugated race. He had no quarrel with the policy of white Australia, but what Indians heard was not merely white Australia but white Canada, white South Africa and so forth, indicating that Indians were not wanted and in some cases they were not treated as human beings. It was the duty of Australians and Indians alike to see that the picture he had depicted was one of the past and not of the future. (Applause.)"

By mutual co-operation they should see that all men owing allegiance to the King should make efforts for the betterment of the British Commonwealth in co-operation with which it was necessary that some law of the Dominions should be made. He said "Australia" to help in the achievement of this happy consummation. He did not see the Australian policy in which Indians would acquiesce until Australia was fit to step in. But he said that Indians in Australia were not accepted as equal citizens with full rights. Australian law gave no general right of citizenship to any person born in Western Australia, and he had "come out" that the subject is a grave one.

Mr. Sastri said that the Government of India was sending a representative to Australia to explain to retiring officers who may be interested the nature of the scheme and the general conditions in Australia. A note drawn up by the Commonwealth Director of Migration and Settlement regarding settlement conditions has been sent to the Government of India. The Government of India is also sending a representative to Australia.

SECRET DIVORCE HEARING.

BRITON'S ITALIAN WIFE.

A divorce case is now before the Florence court in which an Englishman, Mr. Robert Murray, is the principal figure.

Mr. Murray, who is the son of the late Charles Fairfax Murray, a noted art collector, married in 1915 a pretty Venetian girl, the daughter of Senator Papaleolo. The couple separated in 1916 and Mrs. Murray has now brought an action for divorce against her husband, alleging that he and a woman named Lina Giovannini have lived openly together in his home in Florence for the last four years.

Mr. Murray brings a counter-action against his wife, whom he accuses of having committed adultery with four co-respondents in different parts of Italy.

The chief witness against her is a medical student of Bologna, Gaetano Giordano, who, in 1927, allegedly wrote to Mr. Murray that he and Mrs. Murray had stayed together as a hotel in Rome. The latter replied: "Dear Murray, my wife is a little poor, but I will do my best for her."

Giordano was questioned and examined by the court, and it was found that he had no personal knowledge of the facts alleged. The court then adjourned the case until further evidence is presented.
